

FOR PRESIDENT IN 1888,
JAMES G. BLAINE, OF MAINE.

Subject to the decision of the Republican National Convention.

"We always have the American flag above us and not below us."—James G. Blaine.

NEVADA MINING.

The mining industry in Nevada is gradually reviving, and the prospects are now favorable that we will witness another era of mining activity. During the early development of our mineral fields, many districts were killed simply because base ores predominated, and our miners were ignorant of the manner of treating them. Now this is all changed, and refractory ores can be treated without any trouble. Nearly all the old mining districts are working again, not on an elaborate scale, but prospecting is going on and in many instances good results are following this work. The restoration of mining will give a new impetus to agriculture throughout the state, and particularly in fertile valleys in close proximity to flourishing mining districts. Many of the old timers who left the State under the impression that our mines were worked out, are returning satisfied that brighter days are coming. The Comstock is once more looming up and before the snows of winter come again, Virginia will ring with her old time activity. Now a project is on foot to drive the Sauto Tunnel to the west of Mount Davidson, and there is no question but what valuable discoveries will be made. Many miners who are familiar with the country back of the old mountain, claim that ledges equally as large as the Comstock, run through that portion of the country, and that ore bodies will be discovered that will equal in extent those opened up on the Comstock. This of course is only a conjecture, but it is not improbable. Small assays can be obtained from all the ledges known to exist between Davidson and Washoe lake, and recent developments have demonstrated the fact that the grade of the ore increases very much as depth is attained. All these facts justify the continuation of a tunnel which will no doubt be run ultimately. Within sight of Reno is a mining district of much promise, and if capitalists could be induced to take hold of some of the properties and develop them, a flourishing mining camp overlooking the town will follow. It is unfortunate that those who would open up mines have not the means to do so. They struggle along, living from hand to mouth and when they do strike anything, men of money are always ready to share in the find. Masole shows up the property and the capitalist reaps the benefit.

With the Comstock booming again, Reno will soon be clothed in the garb of a prosperous city, and our agricultural interests will be in a thriving condition.

THE GROWTH OF RENO.

The JOURNAL rejoices that the growth of Reno has been steady, and not characterized by anything of a spasmodic nature. Though we have not had a boom, in the common acceptance of that term, we have much reason to rejoice at the steady and substantial improvement that has taken place. All the buildings that have been erected in our town, both business houses and dwellings, have been of such a character as to demonstrate that those who built them have come here to stay. The light, cheap structures, common to places where permanency is in doubt, are something of the past in our city. Business houses are built of brick, while residences are made of the very best material; are built solid and well, and in another year or two, even at the present rate, most of the old town will have passed away, and fine brick business blocks will occupy the ground upon which the frame buildings once stood; this is the kind of a boom we want. As our town is built up and our population increased, it will become more and more attractive, and in the end we will have the boom for which we have watched. Next season will undoubtedly be one of great activity here, and real estate transactions will be more frequent than during any year since the settlement of Reno.

James Sackett, an old soldier, who was disabled and who has been sick for nearly three years past, is trying to earn a livelihood soliciting subscriptions for Logan's book. Patronize the old soldier.

The Tribune says while Carson has a dull appearance, there are less idle men there than in any town of the State.

THE OHIO IDEA.

The platform adopted by the Toledo Republican Convention contains the following salient features. The tariff plank says: "We are in favor of a protective tariff to secure the American citizen the privilege of supplying every article that can be produced as well in the United States as in other countries, and in a sufficiency to supply American wants. Such a tariff makes a demand for and gives employment to the labor of American citizens and thereby aids in securing a just compensation for labor."

The Ohio Democratic platform of a tariff for revenue only is strongly denounced.

The resolutions urge Congress to pass a law to protect the United States from the inroads of anarchists, communists, polygamists, fugitives from justice, dependent paupers, insane and all others who seek our shores not to become a part of our civilization, but who come among us to make war upon society.

The platform says on the labor question that the condition of the men who labor in the South cannot be maintained or improved so long as those who labor there are wrongfully deprived of their rights and the power of American citizenship.

A free ballot and a fair count in all sections of the country is demanded.

The platform next declares: "We have placed the war, with its hates and revenges, behind us, but the settlements of the war must stand irrevocable, respected, honored and observed in every part of the Republic."

It demands such a duty on wool as will secure the American market to American producers. The resolutions further declare that the public lands should be sacredly held for the benefit of the actual settlers.

The action of the President in vetoing the Pension bills and the spirit manifested toward disabled soldiers is condemned. His veto of the Dependent Pension bill is characterized as unjust and unmerited.

In conclusion, the platform pays a tribute to the unflinching loyalty and long services of John Sherman.

The tariff plank was received with loud cheers, and all received more or less applause.

THE TOWN LICENSE.

To-morrow being a regular session of the County Commissioners, they will probably wrestle with the proposed ordinance to raise revenue to assist in running the municipal government by requiring the business men to take out town licenses. The JOURNAL has defined its position relative to this manner of taxation and is now opposed to it. For the purpose of giving the Commissioners a practical suggestion, we will give them the views of the last Grand Jury, as to a practical plan of raising means, if they must have more, to run the affairs of Reno. These are their words:

"The Grand Jury views with alarm the enormous expense to tax-payers by reason of the promiscuous use of intoxicating liquors and not alone in the interest of economy, but in the interest of good morals, we are in favor of a high license, and urge upon the Board of County Commissioners, the passage of an ordinance for the town of Reno which will require the payment of $200 per quarter in advance, from all persons engaged, or who desire to engage in the sale of any spirituous, malt or vinous liquors; provided this shall not include those who retail in greater quantities than one gallon."

Reno can boast of too many saloons, a number of which have questionable appendages. The licenses now paid by saloon men are only nominal, compared to what these institutions indirectly costs the tax-payers. To impose a heavy license for carrying on the liquor business would close up many, if not most all, of the obnoxious dives, where the petty offences are bred which deplete our treasury by their prosecutions. No business which has a healthy moral tone should be burdened beyond that which it should equitably carry; but the business which naturally breeds crime, should as a police regulation, be made not only to bear the financial burdens of the crime, but should be so taxed as to amount to one of the means of regulation. If the Commissioners will add to the license that the some 30 or 40 saloons pay, the JOURNAL will approve of their action, but if they pass an ordinance that requires a license of all other callings we shall consider it unwise.

POLITICAL RUMORS.—It is said that Congressman Woodburn will be a candidate for Supreme Judge next year, and does not desire to go back to Congress. In this connection it is whispered that Governor Stevenson is willing to go to Congress, and permit Hank Davis to become Governor. J. Ponjade, C. S. Young and others are also mentioned for Congress. Judge Leonard has gone East to help his wife to her share of a large fortune left by the demise of her father.

In the District Court all cases not heretofore set have been continued until September.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.), July 28.—News reached this city this afternoon of a distressing accident last night to a freight train near Bellemont, A. T., on the Atlantic and Pacific road, in which the fireman, John Sparks, of Stewartville, Va., was killed outright, and J. T. Riley, the engineer, and George Gibson, a brakeman, were dangerously injured and are not expected to live.

The accident occurred at Franconia station, near Needles. The engine at full speed plunged into an arroyo, the bridge over which had been burned. The freight cars were piled upon top of the engine, making a terrible wreck. To add to the terror of the situation the wrecked cars caught fire, and at last accounts were still burning. It was impossible to rescue the body of Fireman Sparks and it remained in the dreadful crematory. Twenty-two cars with their contents and one of the finest engines on the road are a total wreck, involving a loss to the company of $90,000.

The Rowan County Feud.

LEXINGTON, (Ky.), July 28.—Colonel John B. Castleman and Adjutant Roger Williams returned from Morehead today, where they had been sent by Governor Knott to inquire into the propriety of sending troops there to attend the sessions of the Circuit Court which is set to convene next Monday. The Government Commission decided to report adversely to sending troops to Morehead. The town is a dead town. Every business house is closed and the doors nailed up with the exception of one small grocery store and saloon, the latter being carried on by the widow of Craig Tolliver. The town is patrolled day and night by forty members of the Law and Order Society armed with Winchester rifles. It is the general feeling that as soon as the patrol is removed the Tolliverites will sweep down on the town and avenge the death of their chief. It is believed that the only true solution of the bloody feud is to let the citizens alone to settle among themselves.

Paying For His Fun.

PORTLAND (Or.), July 27.—Deputy United States Marshal Frush went out on the narrow-gauge road this morning armed with a warrant for the arrest of Charles Sandstone, who stopped a train yesterday, on a charge of obstructing the United States mails. He was found mounting a guard on the track across his land, displaying a danger signal, and armed with a shotgun. He made no resistance and was arrested and brought to this city. He says he acted under the advice of a lawyer who has been a Circuit Judge. He did not think about stopping the United States mail when he stopped the train. He was held for examination to-morrow in $100. He appears to be a sensible sort of a man. He had no fault to find with the published accounts of the affair, except that some profanity was attributed to him. He says he has been a member of the Baptist Church twenty-five years and does not use profane language. He has no fear of anything serious happening to him, and talks as if stopping a train for an hour and a half with a shotgun and pulling up a rail was quite a commonplace affair.

What is Thought of the Action of the Convention.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The Evening Post says: The Blaine faction in Ohio has been pretty effectually extinguished for the time being by the Toledo Convention. It is now almost certain that Illinois and Indiana will follow, and the voice of the latter State will be heard and listened to in the South. Sherman has won a notable victory, and it will be well for Blaine to turn his steps homeward without delay if he would counteract the wave that the Toledo Convention has started.

HE KNOWS.—Judge R. Bigelow is a short-hand reporter. Lawyers never try more than once to make believe the witness said what he didn't say. He has the good opinion of every one practicing before him, and it is a pleasure to report a case under him, as he knows the exact possibilities of the profession—when an angry female witness and four lawyers commence to talk at once, he generally steps four of them. So says the Evening Report.

AN AUCTION AT TAHOE.—Some of the Virginia boys at Lake Tahoe proposed to auction off all the young ladies at the Lake. Some of the ladies brought as high as $150,000. The boys who purchased just put their fingers in their vest pocket, pulled out the money and paid the bill. They were a little sensitive about bringing their property to Virginia, and the girls were allowed to return to their California homes.

The Opera House will probably be secured as a pavilion for the exhibit at the Ormsby District Fair this Fall. Next year a pavilion will be built in Carson.—Tribune.

THE MOORE TRIAL.

A Noted Criminal Case.

In summing up the trial of L. J. Moore, for the murder of his daughter Alice, the Virginia Evening Report says: This was one of the most noted cases in the criminal annals of Washoe county. The circumstances enveloping the tragedy, if brought to light under new trial from conviction, would have thrown the notorious Rover trials far in the shade. But the defendant has been acquitted, the jury at 10 o'clock last evening returned a verdict of not guilty, after being out a little over one hour.
It is not within the history of the criminal annals of this State where is recorded such a string of perjuries, on both sides, as were committed during this trial. It would be difficult to imagine that in the midst of a civilized community there existed such a family as the evidence and circumstances attending the evidence showed the family of L. J. Moore to be. It is revolting—repulsive to every human feeling, and no possible good can come of its publication. We are in possession of every fact and circumstance, but let them be buried, rather than under to any taste that would relish them.
The defendant is acquitted, on the ground we suppose, that the deceased took strychnia poison; now let the jury reconcile their oath to do their duty by the State and the community with the statement of the defendant that just before Alice died, while in the throes and convulsions of strychnia poison, he held her in his arms on the side of the bed and she said, "I love you, papa." Let the jury hunt for the instance where a person dying in convulsions, caused by strychnia poison, can even open his mouth, much less talk, and then affect the belief they did their duty to society, and that law which is supposed to protect us in life and property.
But maybe an inkling into the peculiar views of the jury may be found in the testimony of the brother of the defendant: "I said I did not believe there was anybody in Reno on the sell, but if there were I had some money along."
The entire family of L. J. Moore is tough. He lived with the person who is now his wife several years before marriage, and had several children by her before the nuptials. The girls on arriving at 12 or 13 years of age were considered and treated by the head of the family as anything but his flesh and blood, and unnameable remedies were not unknown to any of them. He brutalized over the whole family and finally went too far. Then the tough brood for two years held the fact of the killing of the eldest as a sort of blackmailing whip on the old man. They cared but little about the death of the sister—so long as they got money from him. Finally he would stand no more bleeding, but took counsel, stood trial, and was acquitted. While most sensational and interesting particulars might be interwoven in the above, it is as near the condensed truth as can be got from any source.

THE SCALDED CHILD.—On Friday the six year old child of Mr. Robinet at Junction met with a distressing accident. It seems that Mrs. Robinet had filled a tub with boiling water for the purpose of scrubbing. Her little child was playing near the tub and it is supposed in walking backward she struck the tub and it fell backward into the water scalding her terribly from the waist to the top of the head. Mr. Robinet heard the child scream and rushing out found his little one in an appalling situation. He immediately snatched her from the water, tore off her clothing, and in his frenzy dashed her into a barrel of cold water. The child is in a precarious condition and will no doubt die. It is a sad occurrence and the afflicted family have the sympathy of the community.

PEAVINE.—Hon. A. D. Griffin, of Peavine, has been circulating among his Reno friends for several days, having come to town on business connected with his mine. The Captain says his prospects in Peavine are very promising but that he is moving along carefully, trying to make the mine pay for the prospecting that is going on. O late he has made several shipments of ore that have given satisfactory returns, and he is confident that when depth is attained, many of the base metals that exist in the ore at the present time, will be lost, and much higher grade ore will be encountered. The Captain deserves success, and if favorable indications can be relied upon his reward will come.

MURDER AT LAKEVIEW.—Al. Sherfen, a barkeeper at a brewery at Lakeview, Oregon, shot and killed a man named Pope on the 21st instant. Pope came into the brewery and used insulting language to Sherfen who was behind the bar. He was told by Sherfen not to repeat the language, but Pope having done so, Sherfen came from behind the bar and was slapped in the face by Pope. Sherfen immediately drew a 44 calibre english ball dog pistol and fired, the ball passing through Pope's heart, killing him instantly. Sherfen was arrested and placed in jail.

THE NEW BUILDING.—The foundation for the new building next to the postoffice is being laid rapidly, and work on the walls will commence in a few days and will be vigorously pushed until the building is completed. The Levy Bros. will commence packing their goods, shelving, etc., about the middle of August and hope to be in their new business place by the 15th of September, ready for the Fall trade. The store will be a large one with an elegant stock on hand.

JACK LINN'S KNIFE.—After the lynching of Jack Linn at Dayton, all trace of the knife that brought him to the gallows was lost, or at least the whereabouts of the weapon was not made known. Some years ago it was made a present to a resident of Reno by a person familiar with its history, and who in some unknown manner became the possessor of it. After a time it was presented together with its history to John Richardson, of the Arcade saloon, on Commercial Row, where it can now be seen. It is a murderous looking knife, and almost as formidable a weapon as a cavalry sword. It has a bone handle that shows age, and a very heavy broad blade, nine and one half inches long. It is simply a knife, but five men were ushered into eternity through its medium. Mr. Richardson will show the knife to all who wish to see it.

HURT BY A RUNAWAY TEAM.—The Genoa Courier says Silas Powers, the butcher at Small's Station, Lake Tahoe, was thrown out of a wagon on Tuesday, near Tallac, by a runaway team and very severely hurt. At last accounts he was not expected to live. Mr. Powers is an old resident at the Lake, and is a brother of ex-Assemblyman Frank Powers, who now resides in Oregon. Frank was telegraphed for immediately after the accident. Mr. Powers died on Thursday from the injuries he received.

A BOYCOTT.—Reno hotel and grocery-men cannot buy berries of Washoe producers. There is a sort of boycott on them; but all they raise they sell to Virginia and Carson parties, at lower prices than Reno men offer.—Evening Report.
This is quite reasonable. Washoe producers, it appears, are laboring for glory, and the welfare of struggling humanity on the "upper levels." They don't care any more for a dollar than the average man does for a yoke of oxen.

TO OUR PATRONS.—Owing to difficulties encountered at the Reduction Works in obtaining steady and sufficient power to properly run our electric machinery, we are compelled to shut down. This is only temporary, pending removal to the Stevenson water ditch, where arrangements will be complete, insuring steady lights when started, and double the number. Will commence running the new circuit next week.
J. L. STEVENSON, Manager.
